Bye, Bye Mike: 67-13

LINCOLN, NEB. — Mike Rozier sang Auld Lang Syne to his fans with the record he most wanted in his home finale while the Cornhuskers pasted Kansas, 67-13, to go 11-0 and wrap up a third straight trip to the Orange Bowl.

With Oklahoma remaining on the schedule, Nov. 26 in Norman, the Sooners and Missouri still could conceivably tie Nebraska for the Big Eight Championship, but after Nebraska secured a share of the title against the Jayhawks, OB officials said the team with the best record would be invited. That means the Huskers.

Rozier had said the only record that mattered much to him was Rick Berns' single-game rushing mark of 255 yards. Mike, who had hit 251 last year, made it inevitable with 230 yards and four touchdowns on 25 carries in the first half while the Huskers were cruising, 41-0. He carried only six times the second half, passed Berns on his fourth attempt, a 9-yarder, with 4:32 remaining in the third quarter, then added two more to finish with 285 yards on 31 carries.

Along the way, he became the Big Eight's all-time season rushing leader (1,943 yards), broke the NCAA season rushing touchdown record (28) and topped the Nebraska and Big Eight scoring record (168) by Bobby Reynolds in 1950.

The team, meanwhile, pushed its season point total to 596 to break the NCAA record of 560 by Brigham Young in 1980.

The defense, helped set the tone with three interceptions in the first half and limited celebrated Jayhawk passer Frank Seurer to 14 completions in 36 attempts for 249 yards and one touchdown.

Rozier wasn't the whole show on offense, either. Backup I-back Jeff Smith carried only six times for 72 yards, caught a 68-yard touchdown pass from Turner Gill and broke a punt return 63 yards for a touchdown. No. 3 I-back Paul Miles chipped in a 78-yard TD run, and monster Danny Casterline scored on a blocked punt by Guy Rozier.

Coach Osborne's Evaluation

A successful home finale, continuing perfect record, an Orange Bowl invitation in the bag and an open date add up to positive elements leading up to the season-ending trip to Oklahoma Nov. 26, Coach Tom Osborne said.

Orange Bowl invitations can't be formally issued until Nov. 19, but Cornhusker officials were assured that the Big Eight team with the best record will be the host team Jan. 1 in Miami. Oklahoma and Missouri could not match Nebraska's 11-1 even if the league race ended in a three-way tie.

"That's probably good as far as we're concerned, but I don't think there's any danger of us thinking that now we're going to the Orange Bowl we don't have to play hard against Oklahoma. I think everybody's going to play the very best they can. But it's kind of nice to have that resolved and to know that at least you have a piece of the Big Eight championship going into the game.

"I don't think it will make Oklahoma any easier to beat. What little I've seen of them, they're kind of the reverse of ourselves, where we have eight seniors starting on offense and three on defense, they've got practically their whole defense as seniors.

"Seven or eight of those guys started three years ago as sophomores. They have a lot of experience and a lot of great players on defense and a lot of good ones on offense, too. But most everybody seems to feel they have the best defensive personnel in the conference.

"Across the board, when you look at offense and defense, they're probably going to have as many good athletes as we are. Some people early in the year thought that they would win the conference, that they should be favored because there's a strong belief among lots of people that you win with defense. I guess we'll find out.

"It varies from game to game, but they're in the wishbone a lot, sometimes 40 to 50 percent. They'll throw it. They're a threat. Missouri had them in a lot of sure-fire passing situations, then they're not as much of a threat. But if they're running the ball well, they'll throw a fair amount just as a surprise element. Then they can really hurt you.

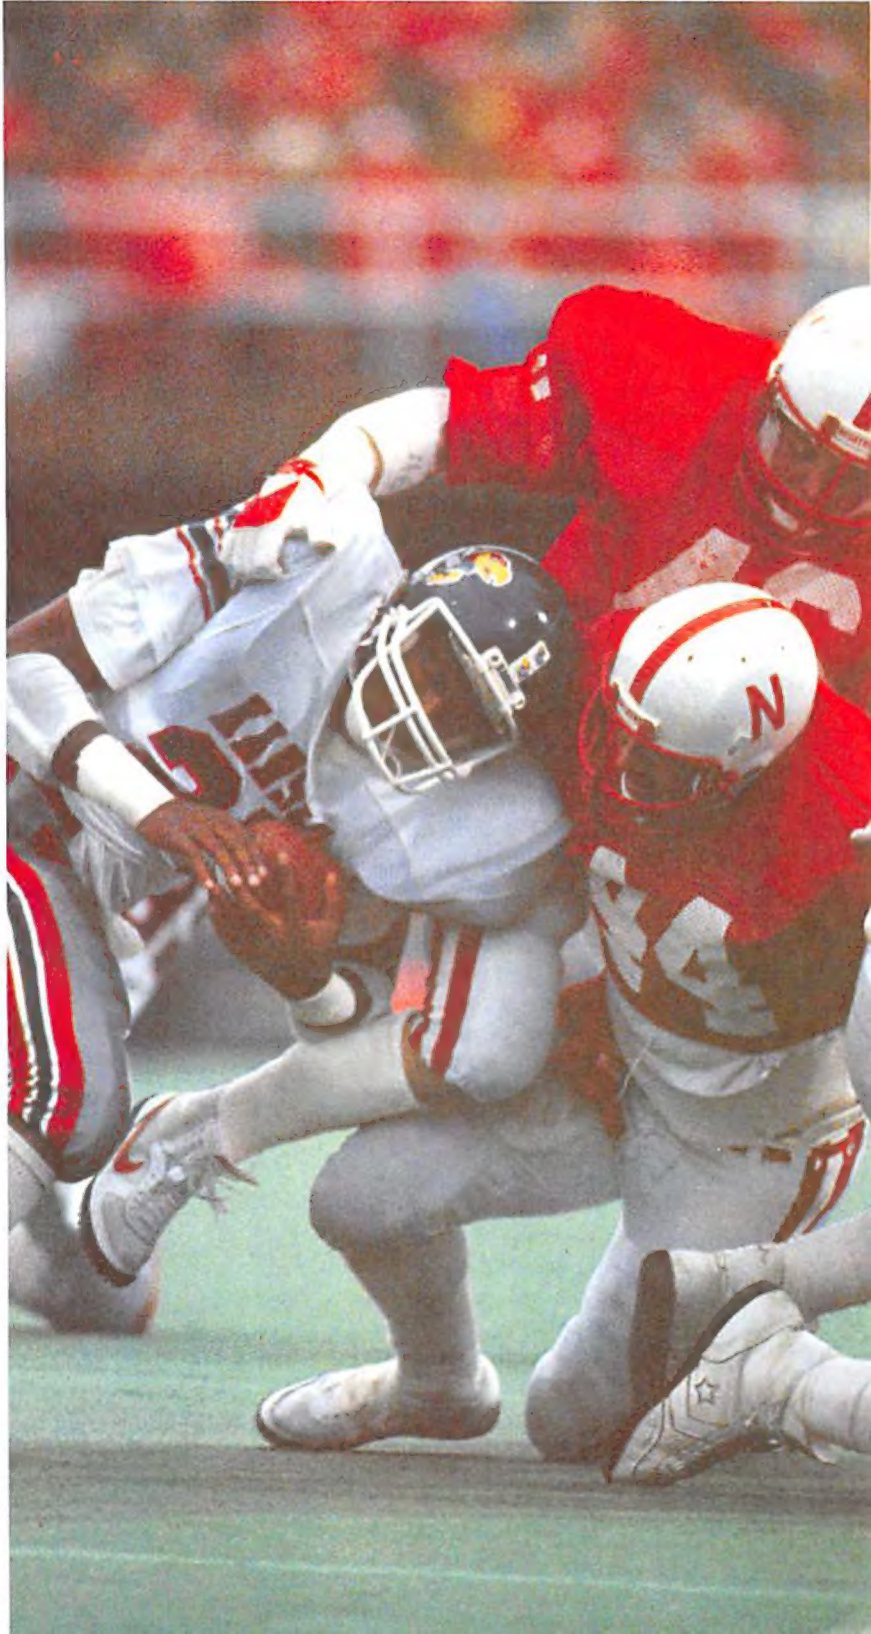

"As far as just dropping back and throwing it 40 times when you know they're going to throw practically every down, they're not that kind of football team. Whether that's helpful or not, I don't know," Osborne said.

Generally the open date is welcomed. He said at the start of the year that the addition of the 12th game, the Kickoff Classic against Penn State, concerned him because of the fatigue factor in a long season.

"The open date doesn't make much difference. If you had a lot of guys banged up, it would, but we're a little healthier right now than we were a week or two ago. The added time will help the defenses a little more. Due to the fact that Oklahoma is running both the wishbone and the I-formation and spread and multiple sets that will help us some. The wishbone, obviously, is a different concept, and the more time you have, the better you are going to be, we hope.

"On the other hand, I'm sure the added time will help their defense because I think repetition is the best friend the defense has. In spring football, a lot of times, it's harder to move the ball against your own people because they see the plays over and over again.

Mike Knox (44) and sophomore linebacker Chad Daffer (46) put the wraps on a Kansas ball carrier. Knox had a team-high 10 tackles in the contest, while Daffer chipped in 7 stops, second best for the day on the NU defense. Kansas managed 452 yards total offense, but only 13 points.

"We have good momentum now. In some ways, I'd just as soon be playing this week, but that doesn't make any difference. We'll try to pace it so we don't wear ourselves out practicing, but you want to get some things done. We'll shorten practices a little bit.

"It's been a long grind. We'll give them Saturday afternoon and Sunday off. If we give them a little time off, that will help. It's been a long time from the first week of August to the end of November. It's a pretty long season," Osborne said.

The Kansas game "may have been our best overall game," he said. "The defense played very well and came up with some critical turnovers and really scored twice, once on a blocked punt and once on a punt return.

"The one touchdown they scored in the third quarter was mostly against first-unit players, but we had substituted even at that time. The last touchdown was primarily against reserves.

"I thought we controlled the line of scrimmage pretty well and covered pretty well.

"Offensively, I thought we blocked very well and played better than we did the week before against Iowa State. It looked like we were a lot sharper and executed better and overall played well.

"The kicking game was good except for the extra points. We had three or four either missed points or mishandled snaps or bad snaps or whatever, but we came up with some big plays — the punt return (63 yards by Jeff Smith) the blocked punt (by Guy Rozier and touchdown by Danny Casterline). So the kicking game was satisfactory.

"The kickoff coverage was good. They got to the 23 or 24 yard line a couple of times, but we probably kicked off 12 times. When you kickoff that many times without giving them anything big, it's pretty good."

The Jayhawks' greatest success came in passing. Frank Seurer threw for 249 yards and a touchdown, but he completed only 14 of 35 passes and had three intercepted. Backup Mike Orth completed four of five for 71 yards and a touchdown against the reserves.

"They scored 13 points, seven against our first defense. They were second in the conference in scoring, averaging 27 points and right at 400 yards a game. We didn't have our first defense in there hardly at all late in the third quarter. There were quite a few yards after that time.

"I'm not concerned (about the defense). I guess everybody else is. They want to do all kinds of things, change our defense, the nickel defense, coaches and everything else. I don't understand it myself.

"It was obvious when we started the season that we had most of our experience and so-called great players on offense. Nobody seemed to be upset when we beat Penn State and held them to six points, or UCLA or Oklahoma State or Missouri.

"But we've had some injuries and play guys with a hot hand, and they get some yards. It doesn't bother me any," he said.

Field Position Chart

This field position chart shows how each offense moved the ball on each possession. The numbers and information down the side columns indicate how each possession ended (punt, fumble, interception, kickoff, etc.). If a team loses the ball after a kick (a return for a touchdown or a fumble), no possession will be indicated for the other team.

Irving Fryar (27) has a big gain, but is fighting for even more as Kansas defenders hang on and close in. Fryar rushed for 19 yards on only two tries and caught a pass for three as the Huskers stuck pretty much to the ground in their 67-13 win.

Lockerroom Chatter

Scott Raridon, offensive tackle — He suffered a shoulder injury in the first quarter and was in street clothes on the sideline in the fourth quarter. But he did not leave the game until after Mike Rozier had secured his single-game rushing record with 285 yards.

"That's what kept me in there the rest of the way. I knew it was real important to Mike to get his record. I wanted to stay in until he got it. Mike is going to get a lot of awards. I can say I blocked for Mike Rozier when he got the record."

Mark Behning, offensive tackle — "I means every yard Mike Rozier got, we got. Our names (linemen) won't go down in the record book, but we were part of it. Mike is a great back. Regular backs don't do the things he does. That kind comes along once in a blue moon.

"We started thinking about that record back about the Kansas State game. You can't plan on it, but we hit it at the right time. He could have run for 400 yards."

Dean Steinkuhler, offensive guard — "I think Mike had the Heisman Trophy sewed up a couple of weeks ago. I don't think he changed any minds today. When Mike breaks a record, the whole offense breaks a record, and he knows that as well as I do.

"I know Mike wanted that record, but he never said a word about it. He's that type of person. Some guys care more about themselves than the team. That's what makes Mike special. He's done a good job of keeping it in perspective. That's why we wanted to get him the record.

"He could have got it weeks ago, but this was an excellent situation, the last home game and on television. It couldn't have worked out any better."

Mark Traynowicz, center — "Mike is an exciting player. He's going to be remembered a lot longer than any of us (linemen), but I'll be able to tell people I blocked for that guy."

Mike Rozier, I-back — "I always wanted that record (single-game rushing.) I came close last year. I'm glad Coach Osborne gave me the chance. I'd be kind of crazy not to be happy. I'm not out here for individual records, but I'm glad they let me get it. I wanted to break it here, in my last home game."

Dave Burke, cornerback — He intercepted a pass that was tipped by linebacker Mike Knox, his roommate and saved an almost certain score when he blindsided Jayhawk receiver Richard Estell on a long pass gain inside the Husker 10. Estell fumbled, and Mike McCashland covered the ball in the end zone for a touchback — "I think the defense played well. We stopped them early and forced some turnovers. That kind of thing takes it out of an offense and builds up the confidence of your defense. Interceptions are big plays, and it's always great to have your roommate involved in it."

Jeff Smith, I-back — Rozier's understudy gained 72 yards on six carries, caught a 68-yard touchdown pass and scored on a 63-yard punt return. The only other punt-return touchdown of the Wichita native's career was last year against KU. "I kind of get a kick out of playing the Kansas schools. You always like to do well against your home-state school." (On following Mike Rozier next year): "I just want to do well. I'm going to play like I can play and just see what happens."

Guy Rozier, monster back — Mike Rozier's sophomore brother blocked a punt that was return 21 yards by Danny Casterline for a touchdown. "I donated my body to him (Mike) today. I wanted to do something like he did so that someday when Mike thinks about this game, he can remember that his little brother did something too.

"There aren't a lot of people who can say they've got a brother who's a Heisman Trophy winner. Now I can tell everybody my brother's the Heisman winner, he holds every rushing record at Nebraska and he's a heck of a person. Now it's my time to do my thing."

The Way We See It

'Nebraska 38,
Oklahoma 17' —
Huskers Illustrated.

The Huskers say...

Huskers Illustrated

"As the Cornhuskers triumphantly exited from their home finale against Kansas, a fan leaned over the railing and shouted, "You've still got some unfinished business." As if they needed a reminder.

"For a team that has won 11 straight games this season and 21 consecutively over two years and is on the verge of all-time greatness, a loss in the season-ender at Oklahoma Nov. 26 would leave an ugly scar.

"The Sooners are staring at a third straight four-loss season while Nebraska is looking at a third straight unbeaten sweep to a Big Eight championship, but...

"Oklahoma can still salvage a piece of the conference pie, and when was the last time a Sooner team folded up when Nebraska came calling?

"Husker offensive tackle John Sherlock said it: 'That'll be a special game until I die, until they stop playing football in the Big Eight. It's one where you throw out the records.'

"For years, the talent was distributed fairly even between the Big Eight's two super powers, and the Sooners could find an edge with a play or two from a game-breaking back or two. That was the difference.

"In the last three seasons, Nebraska has been blessed with the big-play game-breaker, or three. The Sooners have found a new star in freshman hooper Earl Johnson. But Mike Rozier should more than offset that threat. OU has no one to counter Turner Gill and Irving Fryar.

"Nebraska's offense will have to slug it out against the stingiest defense it has met, which means the hottest attack team in the land will probably not score more than five or six touchdowns. Oklahoma's offense is too one-dimensional, which works in the favor of the Blackshirts.

"The Sooners still pass best as a surprise, and Danny Bradley will probably hit Buster Rhymes for a touchdown or two. But if OU falls behind, it's over. Make it Nebraska 38, Oklahoma 17.'

Jim Lassiter

Daily Oklahoma, OKC

"I think you have to make Nebraska an overwhelming favorite. If Oklahoma's offense had remained intact, the Sooners would have had a chance in a scoring match, because their defense is statistically better.

"But without backs and linemen, Oklahoma just can't score. Nebraska 35, Oklahoma 14."

Mike Sowell

Tulsa Tribune

"Oklahoma doesn't need a hex, it needs a quarterback, some running backs and an offensive line. This isn't a typical Oklahoma team.

"With an inspired defensive effort, the Sooners may be able to play Nebraska within two or three touchdowns, otherwise Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne is going to have to again answer his critics about running up the score. Nebraska 35, Oklahoma 14."

Terry Yeager

KMTV, Omaha

"There is a lot riding on this game. For starters, Nebraska's chance for a national title and a Big Eight title. It would also be the third year that Tom Osborne has beaten Barry Switzer and we all know that Barry doesn't like to get beat by Nebraska.

"I thought that might be a record, but not so. D.X. Bible coached Huskers teams that won six in a row from 1931 to 1936. But this is '83, and a lot more potent of an offense. Ricky Bryan and company will have a long day trying to stop Turner Gill and his Jersey Jets.

"And I think the Blackshirts will come on to stop Oklahoma's running game so well that I'll say Nebraska 42, Oklahoma 17."

Wally Provost

Omaha World-Herald

"The old idea of an Oklahoma jinx on the Huskers was mostly media talk. And with Nebraska breaking even with Oklahoma in their last six meetings, we should be able to entirely forget about the so-called 'jinx.'"

"Nebraska will win again this season. I ran out of fingers many weeks ago trying to keep track of Husker scoring, but the margin will be satisfactory."

Berry Tramel

Norman Transcript

"Nobody's talking about OU's jinx over the Huskers anymore. Can't blame them, no reason to get Nebraska riled up more than they will be already. Runaway victories over bewildered Iowa State and Kansas gave Sooner fans false hope. But Missouri brought OU back to earth with a thud and the Sooners' season is now in shambles.

"Anyone thinking OU has a chance must be crazy. Nebraska's offense will face its stiffest test this year because OU's defense is approaching greatness — but it can't overcome an inept offense. I'll give two scores. If the Sooner offense doesn't make many mistakes, Nebraska will win 28-7. If OU fumbles and stumbles and hobbles and bobbles, call it Nebraska 48-6."

Randy York

Lincoln Journal and Star

"For three straight years, Oklahoma's defense has not been as advertised. Individually, they are talented athletes. But collectively, they lack the unity to take on a force like Nebraska. Last year the Huskers didn't have a healthy Mike Rozier in the second half and the Sooners had Marcus Dupree. The absence of one and the presence of the other turned a potential rout into a 28-24 game. This year should be different. If the Sooners could pass, I wouldn't feel this strongly. But they can't and I do. Nebraska 42, Oklahoma 17."
